

Dear friends,

It is over two weeks that Luz and I returned to Spain. We are thankful for God's provision of an apartment to live, hands to help us move our belongings from Valladolid to Cuellar, and a car we can use while we find a car to buy.

We will write more details about our first weeks and how God is opening doors, but for now we just want to share with you an important prayer request. Luz's mom is very ill. Last year she was diagnosed with liver cirrhosis. Her liver was damaged by medications she had been prescribed to treat different health problems.

Luz's mom was more or less stable until two weeks ago when she started experiencing severe pain in her liver and needed to be taken to the ER a couple of times. After several tests, her doctor believes this is her last stage. While she is in good spirits and strong in her faith, she is becoming weaker, does not have a good appetite, and has constant pain.

We would like to ask you to join us in prayer as Luz is not sure when she should go. Pray for peace as she makes a decision and for God's provision and protection for her trip.

Thank you so much for your prayers,
